

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Provided are print control server, method and program by which a print result that a distributor of print object data is easily obtained at a place to which the print object data 5 is distributed.

A print control method which uses a server and a plurality of print systems that can communicate with each other through a network, and it includes a print request stage (S150) for printing print object data by the print system, in the print 10 control system, a transmission stage (S155) for transmitting the print object data and control information to the print system when the print information request is received, in the server, and a print stage (S160) for printing the print object data by use of the control information, in the print system.

15

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A print control method using a server and a plurality of print systems that can communicate with each other through a network, the print control method includes: a print request step of transmitting to the server a print information request which requests print object data and control information for printing the print object data by the print system, in the print control system, a transmission step of transmitting the print object data and the control information to the print system when the print information request is received, in the server, and a print step of printing the print object data using the control information, in the print system.